

DR. BLOOM WELCOMES STUDENTS

As I move throughout the campus during these opening days of a new school year, I sense a strong atmosphere of enthusiasm within the entire student body that could make this one of the best years in the history of Frankfurt High School. Fully realizing that such enthusiasm frequently reflects a reaction to a welcomed change after the long summer vacation, I sincerely hope that you will sustain this positive attitude toward all your endeavors throughout the school year. Our school offers a wide range of academic, business and vocational courses (including the excellent opportunities at the Darmstadt Career Center) and co-curricular activities, all of the same caliber as those offered by the best Stateside Schools. There is literally something for everyone.

I strongly urge all of you, in consultation with your teachers, counselors and parents, to select and successfully complete an area of studies that will best meet your needs and interests and at the same time improve your chances to secure the best position possible on a job market that, at present, is not very promising. Above all, strive for a successful completion of the requirements for graduation with a high school diploma which is without doubt one of the most important steps toward future success.

I look forward to sharing a profitable and rewarding school year with all of you.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

I am a member of the Junior Class, and I am writing this letter concerning the cafeteria situation. I am sure you've had many complaints, but I still wish to put in a few words.

First, I find the lines are part of the problem I am getting at. It seems to me that there isn't any line, but just an area in which you receive your food or it is two lines running into each other, with people cutting all the time.

Second, I don't see how you can manage to feed 1400 people in two lunches. It seems to me that this is also part of the problem.

Third, the size of the cafeteria is not large enough, and it tends to get filled up quite quickly.

The complaints above are strictly, my point of view as I see it--I don't have the answers to the problem but I do have suggestions, such as having a line where you can buy cold sandwiches to heat up in a microwave oven.

I end this letter by saying the cafeteria is a long way from being a cafeteria.

Concerned,

Tyler Sims

Dear Editor,

There are many things that should be appreciated at Frankfurt American High School, but there are also many things that are in need of change. One of the things I dislike most is the buildings.

The school consists of four very old buildings: the main building, the annex, Silver City, and supply, which are in need of modernization. The students and faculty of Frankfurt American High School are representing the Americans in Europe, but when the German people see the condition of our school, they get a poor impression of Americans.

The over-all appearance is really a first impression. Seeing old paint peeling, letters falling off the front of the main building, and the school's buildings location isn't what one would call an attractive school.

Another change that should be made is in the halls of the Annex. For instance the Annex halls are so narrow that in case of a panic during a fire, it would be virtually impossible to get out.

The students should be able to go to a school that they can be proud of. E.L.

Dear Editor,

I live on the German Economy and have to ride the bus to school everyday. Now this bus not only picks up economy kids but also kids from Langen Terrace.

The problem seems to be the fact that the Langen kids are a little roudy; they smoke hash and drink alcoholic beverages on the bus. When they do this, or even when they don't, they pick on the economy kids.

Last year, the Langen kids threw little steel balls and decayed food at us. When one of us would say something to them about their actions, they would immediately mark that person for harrassment for the rest of the year. Our busdriver stops the bus sometimes and tells them to stop; but as far as doing something to get those kids off the bus he can't.

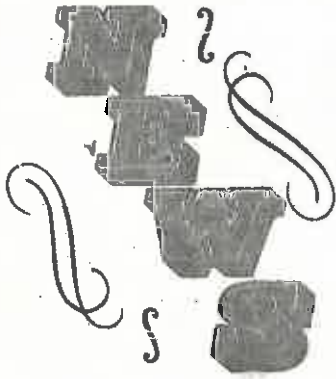

We have complained many times to the motor pool with no results, and since the new school year is here and they have already started again, I thought you might be able to give me some advice as to what other actions could be taken to stop this harrassment before someone gets hurt.

Worried Busrider

Dear Worried Busrider:

I suggest very strongly that you write a letter to the base commander telling him what has been happening. Have all the economy kids sign this letter and maybe even the busdriver. Hopefully this letter will result in some disciplinary actions against the Langen kid or even in getting a different bus for them.

CLUB

There's a club in our school that you've probably heard of by now. If not, then I'll tell you a little about it. It's called the International Club and it's considered to be one of the most highly respected clubs we have here at FAHS. Anyone is welcome, provided one is taking a foreign language and is interested in learning new cultures meeting new people, and going to foreign places. As long as we're over here in Europe for a short while, we might as well take advantage of the opportunities offered to us through this club.

At 3:15 every other Thursday afternoon, the president calls to order the members of the club. Then, the treasurer reads his/her report followed by the reading of the minutes. Dues of 50¢ are collected at each meeting to go into a fund for trips and festive occasions throughout the school year.

In previous years, the club has visited such places as the Black Forest and France. This year, the club plans to go to the Christkindl Markt in Nuernberg. Each Christmas season, they visit various nursing homes in the outskirts of Frankfurt, singing Xmas carols and bringing gifts made by the members. This helps to spread some of that Christmas cheer to those not as fortunate as we. The members enjoy this event very much and refer to it as the most rewarding experience of all they undertake.

Frau Langer, a German teacher here at Frankfurt High, has been the sponsor for the International Club for over fifteen years and plans to continue her job, a good one. She organizes all trips made and keeps things under control. When asked what she thinks the students can most benefit from such a club, she tells us, "The club is here for anyone who wants to broaden horizons and get to know Germany's beautiful and breath-taking countryside."

The members very much enjoy having Frau Langer as a sponsor. She helps them to understand and appreciate more of what Germany is all about.

SENIORS VOTE!

The Senior Class elections were held on September 11, 1978 in the FAHS gym--home of the 1978 Blue Division Basketball Champs. The festivities started when Michelle Beneke opened the floor for speeches from the candidates. The speeches were short and precise. Results were as follows:

President: James Krasnican
 Vice Pres.: Karin Grantham
 Secretary: Debbie Jentsch
 Treasurer: Cheryl King

WELCOME

The Junior and Senior classes were officially welcomed to Frankfurt High by Dr. Bloom and his staff on Tuesday, the fifth of September, 1978. After Dr. Bloom's welcome address, the most controversial figure of this high schools administration, Mr. Jones, was met with mixed emotion.

Mr. Jones, as most of you know, is the person who administers the disciplinary aspects of student life, here at FAHS. His message was one which, despite considerable opposition from the audience, was effective in its meaning.

The remainder of the time was used for the introduction of different student organizations and clubs for the purpose of recruiting new members. Among these organizations were the FBIA, sponsored by Mr. Miller, the Yearbook and Cheerleading by Ms. Kenney, the International Club by Frau Langer, and the International Thespians by Ms. Taylor.

FIRST DAY AT FAHS

Having been a sophomore, I know exactly what the first day of school was like for them. They're the ones who walk around looking sure of themselves; the problem is, too sure.

They're always the ones who ask for the way to the classes they have, or walk around looking lost, afraid to ask for directions. The ones who ride the buses are easy to find. They stand at the bus stop talking and laughing the loudest. Then when they go on the bus, they suddenly get quiet and stare out the windows. When they finally arrive at the school, they start laughing and talking loudly again.

They go through the day getting lost, asking for directions, getting pushed around and laughed at. At the end of the day they just climb on the bus and collapse, not wanting to talk to anybody.

But we should give them an "E" for effort, since they are the future juniors and seniors.

We juniors have only one thing on our minds: BECOMING SENIORS AND GRADUATION.

As for the seniors, for some it's the happiest, for others, the saddest, because this is it, the year they graduate. Some go to college, others go to work. But they all have one thing in common. They'll go and find out what the outside world is all about: unsheltered from teachers and friends in the school. S.S.

The day was cool, the morning bright and brisk as my parents and I walked along to school. We got to school, and right away they started to enroll me.

We went from one room to another and back. It took all of first period to get me into the school. Finally we were finished and I began looking for my classes. When I entered, My name was entered on the roll and I sat in my chair all morning long until fourth period.

Fourth period, my ROTC class: There we were issued at least ten books! I had much trouble trying to carry my ROTC books, my short-hand book, and my notebook all at the same time. Then a boy from the ROTC class walked up to me and helped me carry my books to my locker. His name: Eric Johnson, a senior. He was very nice to me. It just goes to show you there are still some gentlemen left in this world.

At the school I attended last year there were no gentlemen at all. If one of the guys knocked you down or knocked your books out of your hands, they just kept on going, without even an excuse me. FAHS is without a doubt the very nicest school I have ever attended.

K.B.

Arriving at Frankfurt American High School for the first time is a rather brain-rattling experience.

I say this, because the school I came from (also overseas) had a grade nine-through-twelve enrollment of approximately 280 students. This number is minute in comparison to the over 1400 occupying FAHS. Another shock is the fact that someone had failed to notify me that the bus pick-up time had changed from 0715 to 0700 hours.

Thanks to my father driving me as far as the Abrams Building, I crossed paths with a guided tour of the school complex. This tour was being led by one of the girls from the neighborhood where I live and was a welcome sight, because I was still in a daze from awakening at 6:15 a.m., and I didn't know my way about the school.

After this "tour" I obtained my schedule and proceeded to an over-crowded first-hour class. I later found out that most of my other classes also had more than thirty students in

WOMEN'S LIB

Hey, women of FAHS, have you been opening your own doors lately? Have you been carrying your own books? Have you been treated like one of the guys? If so, it could be that ERA, better known as Women's Lib, had affected some of the students of Frankfurt High.

Approximately one third of the students at FAHS, both guys, and gals, back ERA 100 percent, saying it is about time there was something to back up women. The one question these people should be asked is, do you really know what you're supporting?

Another third of the students are against ERA saying, "woman's place is in the home." What needs to be asked of these people is "Do you people know what you are against, or is it that you just don't want to accept change in the women of the United States?"

Still remaining is the final third that make up FAHS. They are the ones who haven't reached a decision, either way, for, or against. The question here is, are they afraid of the change which will come out of ERA, or is it that they don't want any kind of change at all?

What is YOUR decision?

Write to the Editor about your decision.

OTHER LIBBERS!!

Women's Lib at FAHS—
What can I say about it? To begin with, I don't think there is too much of it going around.

Even with all the demonstrations and rallies that are being held back in the States, the women here at FAHS seem unchanged or unmoved by what is going on at home.

But that doesn't mean that they are all dependent on men to do everything for them, such as opening doors, holding, carrying their food trays, walking them to class, etc.

Many of the women here, carry their own books or open doors for themselves, even if they have a boy friend who might do these things. Then there are the ones who do have the men walk them to class, and do other gentlemanly things for them. They are not Women's Libbers

Part of the reason, I think, for the small interest or concern for Women's Lib, on the part of the high school woman is probably due to the fact that she has other things occupying her mind, such as studying, hurrying to class in order not to be late, trying to walk fast so as not to get wet, or worrying about the test she has next hour, and with these things. and more to occupy her mind she really has no time to remember not to let men open the doors for her, carry books, walk her to class, etc. T.O.

Women's Liberation here in Frankfurt American Hi. school is definitely observed by people of the male sex. All over the United States women are trying to gain equality with men, but here at FAHS women are being treated more than equal. Take, for instance, last year in my geometry class. Mr. Bayerl, our teacher, asked for a couple of people to return some desks to supply and bring us back some new ones. No one volunteered their muscles, so Mr. Bayerl picked two strong-looking guys. One of them was me. I felt very liberated, especially since I was wearing high, uncomfortable shoes and a dress.

Women have all kinds of freedom here at the high school. When the bell rings for the end of class, the guys wouldn't even think of waiting a few seconds and letting a girl leave first. One would push her out of the way. It's great! I feel free from my oppression.

You don't know how good a feeling it is when you're walking down a crowded hall, and a guy walking beside you decides he wants to go talk to someone else. He turns quite suddenly and runs you over. It's also nice when a big guy in back of you has to burp. He just lets it all out, not worrying about what the girls would think. After all, we're liberated

SOPHOMORES VOTE

On September 11th, the Sophomore Class held their class elections in the Idle Hour Theatre.

Each candidate gave an inspiring speech. The candidates had many ideas to help increase the class spirit and to make their class the BEST all around.

After all the speeches were finished, all the sophomores voted for the ones who would do the best job for the Sophomore Class.

Here are the persons elected for Sophomore Class offices:

President: Marie Hurtado
Vice Pres.: David Bloom

To everyone's surprise no one ran for the office of Treasurer or Secretary.

These positions will be decided upon at a later date.

them. The classes I was accustomed to had between twenty and twenty-eight.

The break between second and third hour was pleasing because I was still trying to find my way around campus. Lunch also came at the right time; my stomach had been growling through both third and fourth hours. Hunger and history don't mix very well.

After sixth hour, I was led to the bus departure point for our housing area by another member of the neighborhood. The bus trip home was uneventful, considering the fact that our bus is an army-owned vehicle. I survived, anyway.

One hundred eighty-two days and counting... T.S.

Dear Editor,

As I look around our beautiful (ahem) campus the question of improvements comes to mind: not wild dreams about a whole new school but simple down-to-earth ideas.

Back in the good old day when I was a sophomore I had an extremely embarrassing and costly experience which would not have occurred if there had been a small repair job. As I was walking from the main building to our beloved annex, (a walk I'm sure most of you are familiar with), I was suddenly caught in mid-stride by a wire protruding from the chain link fence surrounding the Industrial Arts building. My coat was as badly mutilated as my sophomore pride.

Two years later, I have noticed that same wire still hanging there trying to snag unwary students. It may not be a big deal in itself but it conveys the idea that our school and grounds need improvement. We, the student body should demand that these minor repairs be carried out.

Max Ollendorff

Dear Readers,

If you have any suggestions or comments on how to improve the school or this paper, please feel free to write a letter to the editors. Give your letters to Laura Lowe, Max Ollendorff Eric Letonoff, or you can give them to Mrs. Rotter in room A-104.

ARMSTRONG SPEAKS!

Well here it is, another of my boring articles, all about my problems. It is very hard to imagine the difficulties faced by an only artist for a newspaper staff.

First of all, I can not really even consider myself as an artist or anything near an artist, but "drawer" just doesn't sound very good. Sure with an appropriate amount of time the art work could be finished without a second thought, but most of my drawings are needed on the day the paper is to go in.

God bless those who ask a week or three days in advance for some drawings, but H.I.P. for those ignoramouses that expect my Rembrandts just to fill up some space on their page.

The name of the game in the press business is to beat the deadline. Sure, all of the writers meet the deadlines for their written work, but it's always me that gets the torment of finishing their work for them.

Now don't get me wrong, it isn't that I don't like to draw because I love to, but I just hate unaappreciated art work. For example, when I spend two long evenings staying awake to make a fantastic 2½" by 2½" drawing (one of my larger ones) and then find out that the page won't go in because it is too boring or done too sloppily. AARGH!!

I hate to complain, but it sure is hard to be an only "artist".

PARTY

Interested in attending one of the largest parties in the world? If your answer is yes, then I've got just the party for you. It is the Octoberfest. If you are interested in drinking beer, this will be an event you won't want to miss. You can cop a liter of beer at a price of only four marks each.

I suppose you're wondering where you can get in on this action. Well, in the beautiful city of Munich starting 15 September and ending 3 October the party is being held. This could very well be a rewarding culture-filled experience.

One thing you should know is that Munich is about 400 kilometers away from Frankfurt. If you need a way to get to the Fest, try the train, hitchhike, ride with a friend, or even go with your own parents. One more hint: If you don't already have a place to stay down in Munich, good luck in trying to find one!

The Octoberfest comes only once a year, so try to make it before the Fest has ended.

DO YOU

LIKE FHS?

To start off another fun-filled school year, the Eagles Echo again asks that profound, inane question "What do you think of FHS?" We discarded the best ones, (which were filled with obscenities) and came up with the following:

Lisa Wilbur: It's a nice school.

Marianne Olson: All right, but too far from Darmstadt.

Nancee Jones: I hate it.

Chris Salamone: Big, more class offerings.

Lathy Basham: Everyone is nice.

Cristal Bonds: All right.

Veno Gibson: New records on Juke Box.

Gretchen Tupy: Too many people, too much soul music.

Sharon Winn: It's crowded.

Patty Koebele: Cafeteria is too tiny.

Sue King: Lots of new people.

Gertrude Schweineburger:

With the help of our Lord we can, together, make this one hoot of a year.

Sandy Hoag: Not enough free time.

Owen Grant: I don't like it.

Drama Crane: If it weren't for the guys...

Jay Graffis: It'll do.

Leslie Smith: I don't like it.

Gary Giebelstein: It's full of...

Minerva Morreale: My two big brothers, Frank and Robert, help me find my classes every single day.

Moroni Pointer: It's all right.

Martin Dittman: It's ok sometimes

Sherrie Berger-I could just eat up all those handsome guys!!!

Herbert Klodd- I just love the cafeteria gourmet-style lunches.

Trixie Petrowski- I think that there should be more emphasis on sex education classes.

Claude Gunther- The buildings here at FHS are a sore sight for the eyes!

Juan de Don Gonzales- I am honored to be a member of the victorious FHS football team.

Kate Hamburger- This is a pathetic excuse of a ramshackle institute of raving maniacs.

Riccardo Adams: It's all right, food's okay too.

Dino Hall: It's all right.

Andre Watson: It's better than the Jr. High.

Bob Tuttle: It's ok, different.

Melih Oztalay: It's ok.

Benita Hosier: It's nice I like it.

Ernie Derveis: It's ok.

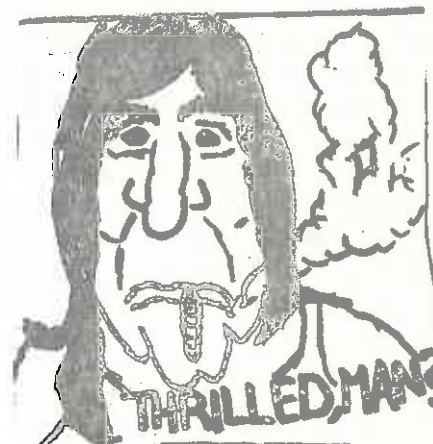

Wayne Ritter: The scenery is good.

Troy Jefferson: I like the girls.

Danny Parks: It's ok.

FREAK OF THE WEEK

This freak is a young male, aged sixteen. He has long, stringy hair, smokes!! and stands at the front door during break and lunch. His natural habitat is the park, and his hobby is fun. His favorite classes are Art I and Rock Music.

This is a tough one, but maybe YOU can solve it. If you can think of the name of our Freak of the Month, write it on a sheet of paper and roll it up and smoke it.

DRILL TEAM

What is a drill team? A drill team has many purposes, such as, promoting, spirit through the schools, providing a halftime show, and encouraging school involvement.

The 1978 FAHS drill team members are: Capt. Kara Tolzmann, Co-Capt. Shelly Wenemann, Co-Capt. Rose Dergan, Pam Wallace, Teresa Caylor, Dawne Cook, Jackie Couillard, Debbie Walker, Heidi Cogan, Angel Reaves, Sheri Jackson, Darva Otlang, Janet Johnson, Denise Cunningham, Terressa McDonald, Cinda Chenoweth, Robin Campbell, Chris Eaton, Tina Johnson, Maureen Moonney, Janice Vicks, Tina Millers, Peggy Perrin, Tanya Starns, Jeannette Cockerham, Barbara Ray, Laureen Larson, Alternates are: Dewi Fasni, Liz Garcia, Carrie Marengo. Mrs. Coyne, our sponser, gave us an interview. When asked, she told us that dance has always been a fun part of her life. "I enjoy working with music, choreographing movement. So after dancing & working in drill teams for many years, becoming sponser to a drill team was a natural. I'm having alot of fun. Before I became interested in drill team I became involved in dance. I've had seven years of mostly modern, some ballet, jazz training. I participated in my high school drill team for two years. Then I auditioned and became a member of the performing dance group, the Orchesis, at Washington State University.

I performed with Orchesis three years. Finally I became a member of the W.S.U. Cougar Drill Team. I performed for two years, was captain for one. I also minored in dance at W.S.U.

Kara Tolzmann when asked "What's the difference between last year's drill team and this year's drill team? Do you think it has improved? She replied:

"I guess the major difference between last year and this year is the enthusiasm on the part of the captain. We really want our drill team to be the best ever.

"Our goal is to make FAHS realize that drill team is not just a bunch of girls, who couldn't be cheerleaders

"I also think we're much more organized now than last year. We started planning in June for this year's football season, so we'll be ready to put on some good performances. I hope that the school will give us the support to increase the girl's spirit, to make the FAHS drill team something to be proud of!"

It is our opinion that this year's drill team has greatly improved. The reasons we think it has improved are the attitude of the members, the routines, and the practices.

The attitude of this year's drill team members has improved tremendously. They are all willing to work support the team, and listen to the captains.

The routines this year are more complexed. They involve more kicking, jumping, and precision work, which we feel will make FAHS's drill team the best yet.

The practices are mandatory this year, which means that anyone not attending a practice without a valid excuse will be off the team.

So come on out to the games, all you fans and see our new drill team perform.

BEAUTY TIPS

TIP I: Before shampooing your hair, BRUSH it well --brushing stimulates the scalp and helps to remove dust and dirt from the hair. Brushing als gives your hair that extra added sheen to make it look even more beautiful.

SPECIAL NOTE: The Cosmetology students will be offering you tips on personal hygiene and grooming in each issue of the EAGLES ECHO. Be sure to look for it.

VARSITY VOLLEYBALL

This year the girl's volleyball team has a new coach, Mr. Luthemer. This is his first year in coaching, but he hopes to make it a very good year. He also hopes that his team will come in first this year; to help this come true he intends to work very hard with his team.

Twenty girls tried out for the team but only sixteen made it.

Officially there is only a varsity team, but there is a possibility of an unofficial J.V. team.

The girls' volleyball team is as follows:

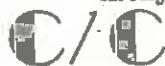

1. Gwendolyn Dickey-Senior
2. Carmen Calwnam-Senior
3. Lovie Stephenson-Junior
4. Lisa Snapps-Junior
5. Susan Wiley-Sophomore
6. Monica Boerner-Sophomore
7. Stephanie Poh-Sophomore
8. Bonnie Grace-Junior
9. Rene Brown-Junior

10. Karin Stanley-Junior
11. Sharon Niswonger-Junior
12. Kathy Sampson-Senior
13. Victoria Randolph-Junior
14. Elizabeth Frazer-Junior
15. Sherry Maes-Junior
16. Belinda Alvarado-Junior

Some of the girls were afraid they wouldn't make the team because they were only sophomores. But this was proved otherwise. The girls are very excited about the games coming up.

Good luck, girls' volleyball team!!

Kathy Basham

As the school year begins the Cross Country team also begins their practice for the running season.

Coach Mr. Itoga anticipates a good season; however, he desperately needs girls to have a complete Varsity team.

The team has a total of 15 guys and 8 girls. They are as follows:
 Vikki Zarkovich
 Karen Grantham
 Susan Smollen

- Shari Lowe
 Lisa Farnsworth
 Doris Ashland
 Dineed Dunphy
 Kris Kerr
 James Smith
 Danny Bent
 Richard Duarte
 Mike Dishner
 David Herriott
 Thadious Proctor
 Doug Prevast
 Victor Jerome
 Thomas Callaghan
 John Durrenberger
 Greg Lanier
 Lance Jones
 Tom Thorston
 Allen Scott

The returnees from last year that will help Frankfurt this running season are Kren Grantham, Jim Colson, Lisa Fransworth, Richard Duarte, Susan Smollen, Victor Jerome, and David Herriott.

The team looks good in spirit, confidence, and ability. All of the runners are hardworking and they're anxious and willing to seek a goal. That's a good sign, after all, willingness and efforts makes a team good says Coach Itoga.

- Good Luck to the Cross Country team this season.

FANS FOOTBALL

The 1978-79 Varsity football season officially opened on August 21 with the beginning of practice in Eagle Stadium.

Throughout the first two weeks players tried to establish themselves as either varsity or junior varsity ball players.

On September 2, the JV and Varsity squads were divided into black and gold teams for the annual black and gold football games. The games are really a controlled scrimmages so that the coaches could get a look, at the talent they have in a game situation.

This year the gold team prevailed and defeated the black team 32-14.

Throughout the first quarter the black team completely dominated play with Gus Norvel scoring on two long pass receptions from junior quarterback Ed Montealegre for an early 14 point lead.

Right before halftime the gold team got on the scoreboard when Jon Doig threw a pass to Steve Ulmer for a lucky reception in the black end-zone, making the halftime score 14-8.

After the half the gold fired up and put it to the opposition. Fullback Chuck Anderson scored on a screen pass from Doig to tie the score. Ramon Fiol caught a pass for the conversion and the lead.

The gold team didn't let up however as they scored two more touchdowns and ended the game with a score of 32-14. Ramon Fiol scored both of the final touchdowns.

Coach Jim Halley had these comments about the early part of the season, "The team is looking good so far as the players are taking the season quite seriously. The attitude so far is good and the players are working hard, and showing good enthusiasm toward practice.

We have a few returning Varsity players such as Doig, Bailey, Fiol, Catchings, Ulmer, Guerdan, Stanley, Sampeck. A few players who played JV last are also good prospects: Bartle Martinez, Armstrong, Law, Bowie, Anderson, Belcher, Montealegre, Samuels, Bauer and Jacobson.

We are looking forward to a productive season and hope to come away with a championship this year."

The Eagles' first game is on September 16 at Eagle Stadium at approximately 1:00. They play Mannheim in the first non-conference meeting.

Come out and support your team.

BALLGAME

Well, it's that time of the year again, when the cool fall air is charged with the excitement of that first football game.

The stands are filled with shivering people, all blanketed and bundled up, but too stubborn to leave. A hum of voices lingers like a cloud above, as everybody tries to decide who this number or that number is.

The cheerleaders are so full of enthusiasm and spirit that they aren't even aware of the brisk air.

Then, like a huge tidal wave, a roar comes from the stands and everyone is cheering, thousands of hands are clapping, and shrill whistles cut the air like a sharp knife attacking a well-done roast. Looking out over the field, you see that long-awaited sight, a mass of black-and-gold-suited bodies, making their way toward the sidelines. A hush falls over the crowd and over the loud speaker the announcer says, "Welcome to the opening game at Eagles' Stadium.

Again the crowd rises, and the yells begin. You are so excited about this game that chills run up and down your spine. These are symptoms of football fever; if you have any of them, the only known cure is to go to your nearest football game as fast as possible!
